Dear Listeners,

After reviewing copies of The Listener from the 1980s, I have become inspired to make changes to the look and feel of this newsletter in its current form. Older copies had a very heartfelt quality, weaving together the rich happenings of the community into a heart-organism in the form of pages and ink.

This time around, I didn't have the time to make some of these changes, but the most notable change made to this issue is that the calendar now lives at the end of the newsletter; however, many little tweaks and additions might be made to future issues.

These older Listeners included regular updates from the Threefold Board Meetings, historical writings on Threefold, a "new initiatives" section that told of fresh global projects, and always a robust section on arts in Threefold, that extended to regular eclectic music performances, dances, and theater, in addition to eurythmy.

I have included an excerpt from a 1988 issue of The Listener to inspire the future of this ever-mysterious print newsletter that makes its monthly odyssey to the doors of a few, in this age of mass digital sharing.

With warmth during this Holiday season,
Adeline Lyons

THE LISTENER'S FUTURE

Valley for the last year and a half, it has been a real pleasure to read the Threefold community's monthly newsletter, "The Listener." Not only does it supply the much appreciated monthly Calendar of Events but contains many articles relating to the particular time of year, bringing to the reader's attention ongoing projects, tasks and repairs within the community, introducing the upcoming events, concerts, performances, lectures, and then reviewing what has taken place.

Indeed, it appears that the Listener redeems and fulfills its role of listening to all the many-layered activities here, only when it has been able to give form to what it has heard in a concise monthly newsletter. It is a special Listener that actually speaks and informs. How wonderful to note the wealth of activities at the Fellowship, the Waldorf Institute, Green Meadow Waldorf School, and the Eurythmy School! No less important is being informed of matters of finances, real estate, or whatever, transpiring during the Board Meetings. For these decisions directly or indirectly affect all of us in the Threefold Community.

Truly the Listener has for the last seven years woven its threads to bridge the many worthy, lively, diverse activities taking place in our community. It has functioned as "ein wahrnehmendes Organ" (a perceiving organ - literally a 'taking-for-true' organ) in the widest and most literal sense of the word. Surely then, one can see what a seemingly modest yet remarkably important role the Listener fulfills in connecting the many diverging threads within this community. In another way, one can liken this function to that of the heart organ. The heart resides within the central rhythmic part of the human being, whose role it is to connect and even transmute, with its breathing-balancing activity, the two poles of willing and thinking.

As with the physical heart, so with the Listener: there are many helpers - nurturers, if you will - cultivating and making possible the 'ongoingness', not to mention the existence of the newsletter. Primary among these helpers is Ruth Pusch, who with Sara Kiesel was its founder. And it is the function of this article to inform the many readers in the community that Ruth Pusch will soon be leaving the post as editor.

While it would be ideal if some brave individual, with time and energy to spare, materialized on the Listener's doorstep, forthwith stepping into the shoes of the editor, we somehow do not anticipate a mad throng of applicants clamoring for this position. And the question then quite logically arises: What new working form can the Listener find, in order to continue when bereft of its editor (which in this case has been like the heart within the heart)?

Will the Listener, for example, eventually sclerotize itself into a nonetheless useful monthly calendar? Is the time ripe for either the Fellowship or the Waldorf Institute or Green Meadow Waldorf School or the Foundation Office - or all four together - to take up the editor's task of soliciting and collecting articles, proofreading, editing and layout? Is the use and need of a monthly newsletter such as the Listener perceived and recognized by many in the community or just the very few?

Dear Community,

As we recover from Thanksgiving festivities and roll over into December, many of us will find ourselves wading through dark and stagnant places in the soul. The season of Advent has arrived, and the Sun—our “I”—is deeply submerged in the watery depths of Scorpio. In fact, on December 1st, the Sun will be making an exact conjunction with the Royal Star Antares, the “Heart of the Scorpion” (four Royal Stars were recognised by ancient Persian astrologers as “celestial guardians” that marked the cardinal directions). This is a place of trial and initiation, of death and resurrection. Antares, the Watcher of the West, is a red supergiant that is referred to as the “rival of Mars”; so make no mistake, there are battles to be fought here. A Full Moon in Taurus arrives shortly after on December 4th, which will also highlight the Watcher of the East, Aldebaran. This Royal Star bestows worldly success, and the down-to-earth Moon is likewise exalted in the Earthly Paradise of Taurus. We must conquer the lower self in Antares if we are to wield the power bestowed by Aldebaran in a wise and just manner. We must shed the skin that no longer serves us in Taurus (the world) if we want to transform our lives into a clearer reflection of the Sun Being’s majesty. The serpent battle ensues in the constellation of Scorpio, the soul’s deepest cavern.

Now look on the following page to find a red square being formed by “aspects” or angles between the Sun/Moon opposition and that of the Lunar Nodes (the South Node is the upside-down horseshoe, while the North Node is the right side up horseshoe). This shape or “aspect pattern” is called a Grand Cross by astrologers. It represents an internal crisis that is most often reflected in outer circumstances. There is also an opportunity to harness the energy generated by The Cross if we can meet the challenge and be transformed by it. The Lunar Nodes are invisible points of intersection between the orbits of the Sun and Moon. The South Node or “Dragon’s Tail” shows us the repetitive patterns that we need to release in order to progress forward, while the North Node or “Dragon’s Head” provides us with a “north star” that guides our evolutionary trajectory. It may be interesting to consider these comments made by Carl Jung about the Ouroboros, a circular symbol that is formed by a dragon or serpent swallowing its tail: “In the age-old image of the Ouroboros lies the thought of devouring oneself and turning oneself into a circulatory process [...] a symbol of immortality since it is said of the Ouroboros that he slays himself and brings himself to life, fertilizes himself, and gives birth to himself” (Collected Works, Vol. 14 para. 513). Relating this to the Lunar Nodes and their ancient relationship to reincarnation, one could say that we slay the past (Dragon’s Tail) with the forces of the future (Dragon’s Head).

The North Node currently points toward Aquarius, heralding the influence of a future age when the vernal equinox will fall in the constellation of the Waterman. The South Node lies opposite in the constellation of Leo, where it is joined to the star Coxa. AstroGold tells us that this star is associated with “[g]ifts of self-expression and self-display. Generous, but watch touchy pride.” The qualities of the South Node must come into service of the North Node, which in this case points toward the greater human community. We may need to swallow our pride to do so. The constellation of the Waterman is our guiding light as we navigate this period of deep inner transformation. Love of humanity (Aquarius) will give us the strength to overcome the self (Leo). The dynamic between Leo and Aquarius is important to understand. Autonomous individuals are needed to serve the community, just as the community should support the free expression of autonomous individuals. In this particular moment of time, however, our evolutionary path is emphasizing self-transcendence through service. Our relationship to our community, to our nation, and to humanity at large is transforming, and we will have to transform in the process. We are all being asked to step up, and to be more sensitive to the unborn reality emerging between our subjective realities. This is really an auspicious celestial occasion to celebrate as we prepare for Christ's arrival in our hearts. Happy Holidays everyone!

Until next time,

Ben

Solitude

Silent the world around,
Gentle the whispering air,
Around both sense and knowing
The light of dawn floods fair.

Alone, the soul must face
The mirror of her deeds.
Cold loneliness enwraps
Her being. Willing fades.

The body, freed of earth,
To ether streams restored,
Feels starlike nature forces
Unite in vast accord.

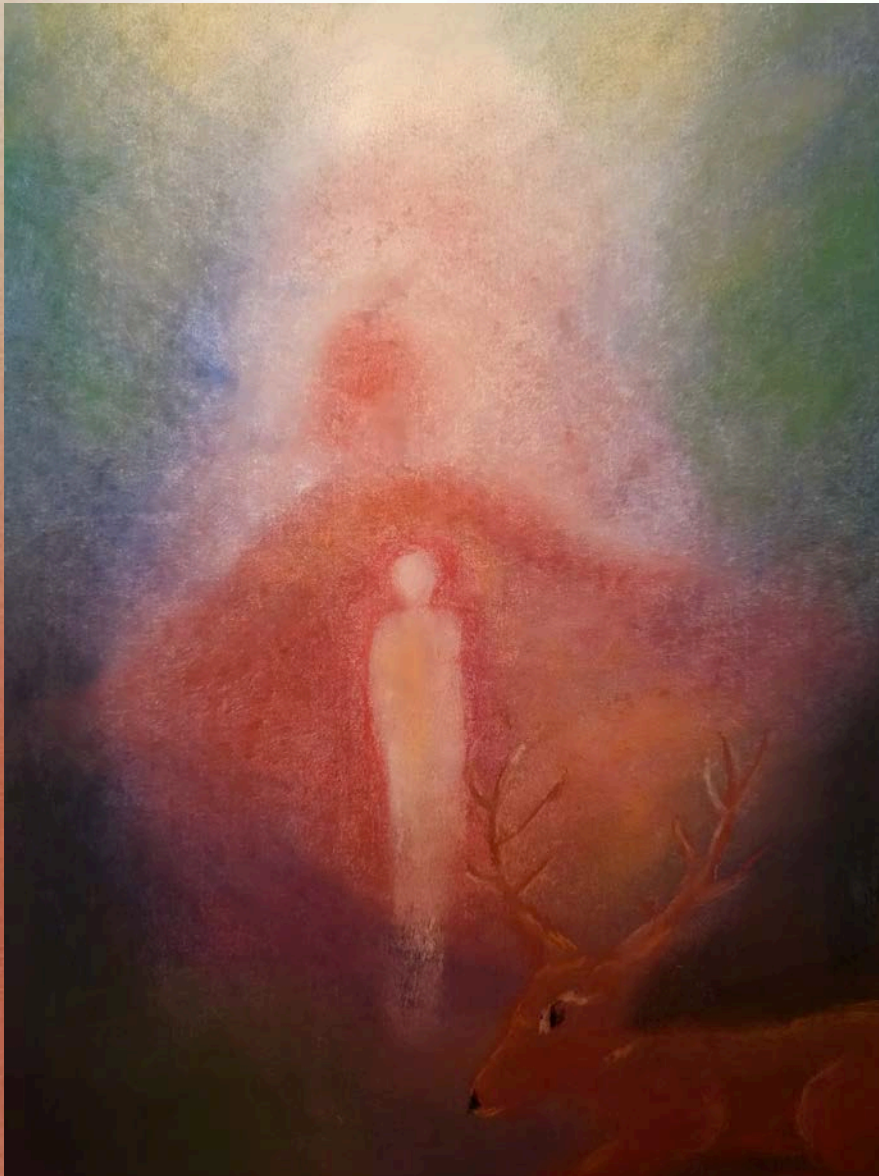

Drawn near, warmth comes to birth.
What is creates pure being:
God's Word announced on earth.
Far spirit shapes the Self.

"I less, you ever more.
A sacrificial fire
Creates the Self from love:
An order conscious, higher.

Alone, the soul must face
The Guardian who would Guard times and deeds. One will
Joins past and future good.

Mysterious vision opens
The heart. The sun on high
Enwarms both sense and knowing.
The cosmos rests in "I."

Anthroposophical Leading Thought

1. Anthroposophy is a path of knowledge, to guide the Spiritual in the human being to the Spiritual in the universe. It arises in man as a need of the heart, of the life of feeling; and it can be justified only inasmuch as it can satisfy this inner need. He alone can acknowledge Anthroposophy, who finds in it what he himself in his own inner life feels impelled to seek. Hence only they can be anthroposophists who feel certain questions on the nature of man and the universe as an elemental need of life, just as one feels hunger and thirst.

Frontier Eurythmy Part-time Training

First two-week training block begins in January 2026!

School of Eurythmy, Chestnut Ridge, NY

This part-time program is designed for those interested in pursuing eurythmy as a career while balancing other commitments. The Frontier training can also be taken as a stand-alone program, as it offers a unique approach to foundational studies through immersive eurythmy that supports deepening personal growth and inner development.

As an art of the whole human being, eurythmy has unique potential for bringing movement, flexibility, and balance into one's inner and outer life. Whether you are interested in eurythmy as a career, or are seeking personal enrichment through an intensive artistic experience, the study of eurythmy can be a practical path to developing new levels of perception, insight, and capacity.

Spindle Spinning: An Experience of Fiber Transformation

with Chris Marlow Four Sundays: January 18 & 25; February 1 & 15, 2026 1 pm – 5 pm $395, all materials included

Spindles are among the earliest human tools, and as woven textiles developed, spinning became an integral part of the rhythm of life for thousands of years. While it is no longer required, spindle spinning remains an archetypal activity, adding creativity to our knitting, crochet, and weaving projects. It is meditative, requires focus, and brings great satisfaction. In this four-session course, we will spin with animal fibers, primarily wool, strengthening our skills and experimenting with different breeds to create sample skeins for a weaving project.

We had a great start in November! In intermediate group, we practiced music by Christian Giersch (Playing-Listening-Silence I), Channa Seidenberg (Pastorale) and Christof-Andreas Lindenberg (Autumnal Canon). This month we will play various advent music. (Our 12/16 rehearsal will be OPEN HOUSE : we won't necessarily be performance ready, but those who would like to listen to us will be welcome to attend as listeners.) In Beginners' group, we practiced the two iconic lyre exercises of "free playing" and "Strömenden Gestaltens (Flowing & Forming)," in which we explored various musical elements such as the pitch, dynamics and rhythms. We also began playing in the Dorian scale and did some listening work with intervals, which we will continue this month.

December Rehearsals

Tuesdays, 12/2 and 12/16 for intermediate & advanced players (12/16: OPEN HOUSE)

Tuesday, 12/9 for beginners (All are welcome. No need to read music. Regular attendance is welcome but not expected.)

@ Main House Living Room (285 Hungry Hollow Rd) from 6:30pm to 7:30pm

Please text or email Saeko by noon of the day of the rehearsal if you wish to join the beginners' group. Donations are appreciated.

Anthropos Presents:

The Incarnation of the Logos An Epic Tale of Christ's Coming to Earth

Told by Actor and Storyteller Glen Williamson

Wednesday, December 31st, 7:30PM
Threefold Auditorium

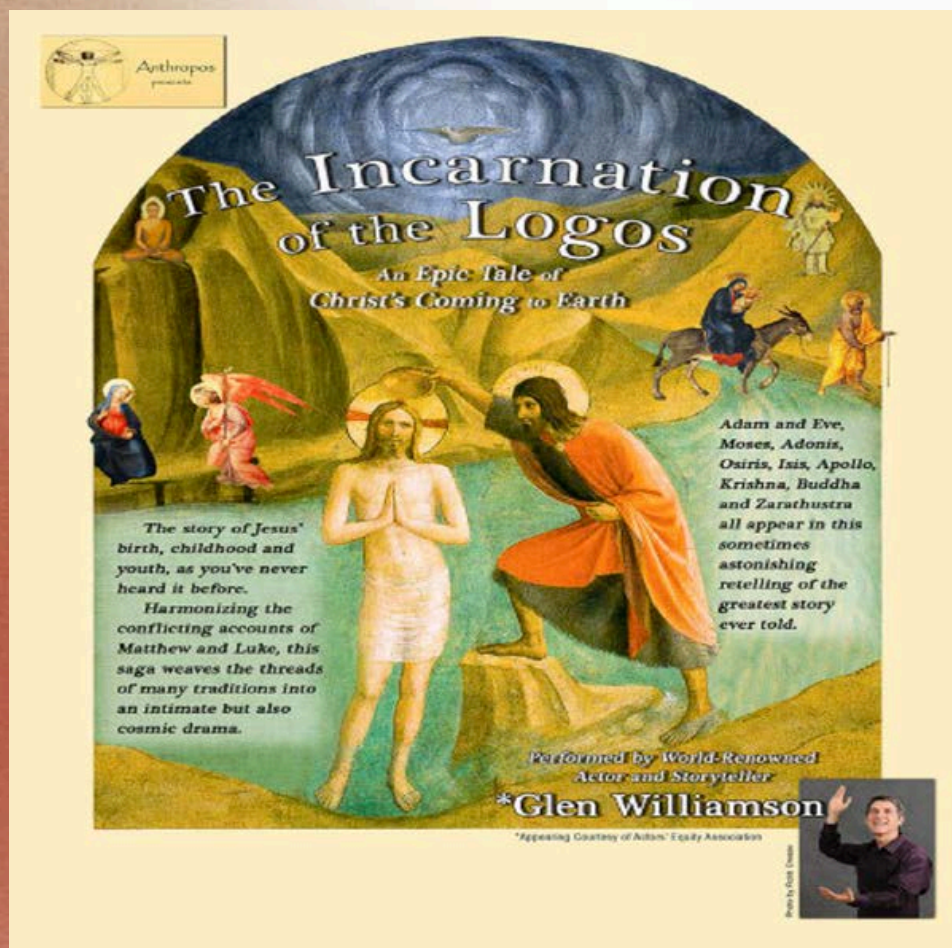

This wondrous story begins with the messianic prophecies in the Temple in Jerusalem, weaves through many parts of the world and throughout history, and ends with the baptism of Jesus in the Jordan River. Magnificent pictures of the dynamic interpenetration of divine and human worlds are sometimes astonishing and sometimes familiar in this dramatic chapter of the greatest story ever told.

Glen Williamson weaves this epic from the two very different stories of Jesus' birth in the Gospels of Mathew and Luke, as well as from the work of spiritual researcher Rudolf Steiner and theologians Emil Bock and Edward R. Smith.
